"I was born in Havnor and trained as a shipwright and a sorcerer. I was on a ship bound from Geath to O Port. I was spared alone from drowning, last night, when a witchwind struck." He was silent then. The thought of the ship and the chained men in her swallowed his mind as the black sea had swallowed them. He gasped, as if coming up from drowning..which useful, which dangerous; why some people had one gift but not another, and whether you could..need be, I'll do it, of course. But you'll find wizards very sparing of the great spells. For good."He lived always on Roke, for it's there that all knowledge of magic comes and is kept. And he had no desire to travel and meet other kinds of people, or to see the world, saying he could summon all the world to come to him-which was true. Maybe that's where the danger of that art lies..After a long time the young man said, "What else can I do?".By the time they were well into the bay and had let down the anchor it was dark, and Ivory said to..opened and entered a great cavern. But though the roots of Roke are the roots of all the islands..Before their marriage, a mage or wizard, whose name is never given except as the Enemy of Morred or the Wandlord, had paid court to Elfarran. Unforgiving and determined to possess her, in the few years of peace that followed the marriage this man developed immense power of magery. After five years he came forth and announced, in the words of the poem, "All the foreigners in one basket," said the taverner, and this was repeated that night at the tavern several dozen times, an inexhaustible source of admiration, the best thing anybody'd said since the murrain.."I understand, no need to go on. All right. So it's a kind of safety measure? Very strange!".lengthened a day by five hours, though he could not, as he had sworn to do, stop the sun at noon.And beyond that, nothing. There had been illusions, little spells, pebbles that turned to..throne the first year of history. By this system, "present time" in the account you are reading is."Not for the same reasons as you," she said, "but I still want to. And we came all this way. And you know my name.."and spat. "Avert," he said..prison shut. The spells were gone, but the people in the tower did not know it, working on under.She stood up. And I got up from my horribly low chair..at least two thousand years old in the Hardic language; its original version may have existed.Lands and of arcane mystery in the Lore of Paln, long ignored by the scholars of Roke, relate that.The king left soon after, and the Master Windkey went with him. Before the king was to be crowned, "Now the King is in my body, the noble guest of my house. He won't make me slaver and vomit or cause sores on my body; no, for I don't fear him, but invite him, and so he enters into my veins and arteries. No harm comes to me. My blood runs silver. I see things unknown to other men. I share the secrets of the King. And when he leaves me, he hides in the place of ordure, in foulness itself, and yet again in the vile place he waits for me to come and take him up and cleanse him as he cleansed me, so that each time we grow purer together." The wizard took Otter's arm and walked along with him. He said, smiling and confidential, "I am one who shits moonlight. You will not know another such. And more than that, more than that, the King enters into my seed. He is my semen. I am Turre and he is me..." "No, you weren't," she whispered. "If you had been, you would know.." The best evidence in the poem for the common origin of dragons and humans is the archaic Hardic word in it that is commonly understood as "people" or "human beings," alath. This word is by etymology (from the True Runes Atl and Htha) "word-beings," "those who say words," and therefore could mean, or include, dragons. Sometimes the word used is alherath, "true-word-beings," "those who say true words," speakers of the True Speech. This could mean human wizards, or dragons, or both. In the arcane Lore of Paln, it is said, that word is used to mean both wizard and dragon..famous wizard"..unused, and looms to be seen by the windows of some of the houses.
